

ECOLOGY AND CONSERVATION OF VERTEBRATES

TUESDAY JULY 17, AFTERNOON

75 Variation of detection probability of medium and large-size terrestrial mammals using camera traps in the Central Amazon, Brazil

Arteaga Maria Clara, Spironello Wilson R., Ferraz GonCalo and Sanderson James mariaclaraarteaga@yahoo.com

85 Effects of certified forest management on the bird community in a Mexican Pine-Oak forest

Andresen-Ellen and Aguilar-George Ivete ivete_aguilar@hotmail.com

147 Diet flexibility and diet item treatment in the golden-backed uacari

Barnett Adrian, Bezerra Bruna and Spironello Wilson wilson@inpa.gov.br

206 A Comparison of bat activity in clear-cuts and forest edges in Toledo District, Belize and Delaware, USA

Wolcott Kelly, Vulinec Kevina, Grisbone Gianna, Yung Rochelle, Howe Leslie, Pakeman Shantel and Bernberg Lana ka_wolcott@yahoo.com

210 How to terrestrial mammals effect tropical plant functional diversity?

Kurten Erin, Carson Walter, Ackerly David and Dirzo Rodolfo elkurten@stanford.edu

212 How close is close enough? Forest gaps and movement of tropical forest birds

Ibarra Ana C. aibarra@bio.miami.edu

267 Activity patterns and diet of two howler monkey troops (Alouatta seniculus) in an isolated Andean forest

Zarate Caicedo Diego Alejandro, Stevenson Pablo and Gomez Posada Carolina da.zarate214@uniandes.edu.co

427 Effects of tropical dry forest disturbance on herpetofaunal assemblages

Suazo-Ortuno Ileri, Alvarado-Diaz Javier and Martinez-Ramos Miguel isuazo@oikos.unam.mx

437 Avifauna diversity during secondary succession of a tropical dry forest at Nizanda, Oaxaca, Mexico

Heredia Abril, Meave Jorge A. and Rodriguez Vicente copalita@gmail.com

489 Does size matters?: Feeding and activity patterns of Mexican Howler monkey (Alouatta palliata mexicana) troops of contrasting size

Aguilar Melo Adriana Raquel and Cuaron Alfredo

aaguilar@oikos.unam.mx

595 Living on the edge: Roads and edge effects on threatened insular endemic rodent populations

Fuentes-Montemayor Elisa, Cuaron Alfredo D., Vázquez-Domínguez Ella, Benítez-Malvido Julieta, Valenzuela David and Andresen Ellen elixa_fm@yahoo.com.mx

649 Bird visitation to native and exotic fig trees in South Florida

Wheeler Jessica H. and Caughlin Trevor jessica.h.wheeler@gmail.com

656 Influence of the anthropogenic disturbance on the amphibians and reptiles diversity of tropical ecosystems

Flores Dominguez Cesar, Sanchez Trejo Ruben, Garza Mourino Gabriela, Castellanos Paez Maria Elena, Benitez Diaz Miron Marcela Ivonne and Patino Espinosa Sandra Gisele
ggarza@correo.xoc.uam.mx

667 Impact of artificial feeders on the foraging ecology of highland hummingbirds of Costa Rica

Avalos Gerardo, Alfaro Willy and Amador Sabrina faetornis@yahoo.com

669 Extinction risk for the mexican howler monkey (Alouatta palliata mexicana) in Los Tuxtlas, Mexico: Priorities between recovering area and reconnecting forest fragments

Escobedo-Morales Luis and Mandujano Salvador luis.escobedo@posgrado.inecol.edu.mx

370 Priority ecoregion sets for conserving Neotropical threatened anurans with distinct development modes

Dias Loyola Rafael, Becker Carlos Guilherme, Kubota Umberto and Michael Lewinsohn Thomas avispa@gmail.com

566 Mechanisms underlying adult occupancy patterns: tadpole performance in pasture, edge, and forest sites

Hawley Tanya thawley@bio.miami.edu

470 Estimation of abundance of Tepezcuintle (Cuniculus paca) from track in sierra Norte de Oaxaca, Mexico

Alfaro Espinosa Ana Ma. and Santos-Moreno Antonio asantosm90@hotmail.com

671 Body size in neotropical amphibian communities and its role in predicting their conservation status

Villanueva-Rivera Luis J., Delgado Johanna, Herrera Maria Isabel, Castro Fernando, Restrepo Carla ljvillanueva@coqui.pr

